Brus

Sleeksoda maker,
for countertop or wall mounting

Designed by SørenRefsgaard, this elegant carbonation machine lets you make your own sparkling water or soda in reusable bottles—reducing plastic waste in everyday life. With its clean, cylindrical silhouette and intuitive button, Brus reflects Stelton's design tradition where form follows function and excess is stripped away.

Brus is available in two versions: a table model and a wall-mounted edition. Both share the same refined design language and come with one carbonating bottle.

Brus water filter jug & filter granules

Stelton's new water filter jug in glass and stainless steel combines clean, timeless design with everyday functionality. Free from plastic, it features a refillable stainless steel cartridge and specially developed granules that reduce lime, chlorine, and heavy metals—making tap water softer, cleaner, and better tasting. The filtered water also protects appliances like kettles and coffee makers from limescale buildup. One bag of granules filters up to 120 litres and should be replaced every 4 weeks. The jug is dishwasher safe, making it as practical as it is elegant.

SRBred box

SRbread box is made from powder-coated stainless steel and has a magnetic closure that closes the door softly and keeps the bread protected. The steel construction shields against light and draughts and contributes to a stable environment that helps preserve the bread's freshness for longer. The spacious size provides room for several types of bread, and the rounded edges give a calm appearance. The steel is durable and easy to keep clean in everyday use, and the top can be used as an extra storage surface, making better use of kitchen space.

Designed by Søren Refsgaard.
